FEATURE IN FOCUS

Project Management

COLLABORATION

Business Pilot acted as the central project management hub, allowing the team to collaborate closely with the builder. By keeping tight tracking on custom orders, deliveries, and critical installation dates, the system ensured the complex build was completed to the highest standard without delays.

BRIEF

The goal was to completely reimagine and extend a property that had been stripped back to its shell, transforming it into a luxury modern family home. The project required collaborating closely with interior designers to integrate premium amenities like a home gym, a cinema, and bespoke steel door solutions.

THE CHALLENGE

Achieving a high-end, sophisticated aesthetic meant joining the build at the early stages. The team needed to execute meticulous site surveys early on while working alongside the builder to ensure every precise order and luxury installation stayed on track.

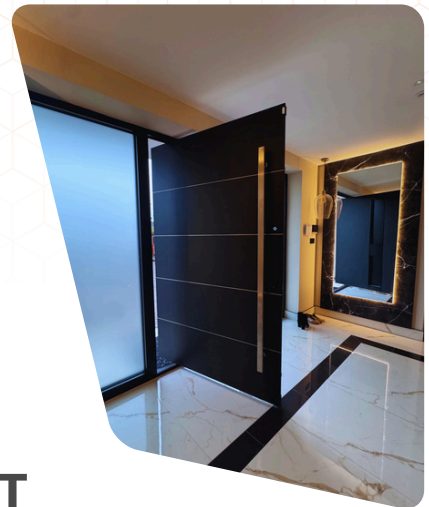

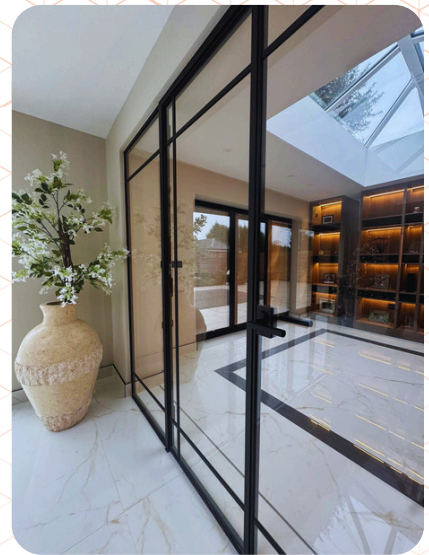

“ Business Pilot allowed us to work with the builder closely from a project management side, keeping track of orders, deliveries, and install dates.

THE RESULT

The transformation successfully delivered a stunning luxury modern family home from a property that was originally stripped back to its shell. Working closely with interior designers and builders from the early stages ensured a flawless finish. The RK Steel internal doors perfectly complement the sophisticated aesthetic, creating a seamless transition into the home's premier spaces, including the private gym and cinema.
